

ADMITS HOAX IN KIDNAPING

SAM BARUSO SURRENDERS AND IS SENTENCED

Baruso Appears In County Court Just Before Noon

Pleads Guilty To Lottery Charge And Is Given Sentence

WORKHOUSE TERM OF 6 MONTHS GIVEN

Fine Of $1,000 And Costs In Addition—Ends Long Chase After Prisoner

Ending a game of hide and seek that has gone on since last June, Sam Baruso, alias "Buffalo Joe" of Youngstown, O., came into Lawrence county court today, surrendered himself and was sentenced on his pleas of guilty to conspiracy and conducting a lottery. The sentence of Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers was $1000 fine, the costs of the prosecution and six months in the Allegheny County Work House. Following the custom in similar cases the court announced that a petition for parole would be entertained at the end of three months if the fine and costs were paid.

Baruso was arrested in May, 1935 when Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard staged a cleanup of the numbers racket in this city. At the time of the arrest Baruso gave bond for his appearance and later entered a plea of guilty to conspiracy, renewing his bond. In the June sentence court he failed to appear and his bond was declared forfeited. Later he was arrested in Youngstown, O., and extradition papers were secured from Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio for the return of Baruso to New Castle.

Disappears Again

Again Baruso gave bond and failed to appear at the hearing before Squire R. W. Raymond of Boardman, O. More technicalities developed and an appeal was taken when Squire Raymond refused to dismiss Baruso on charges of being a fugitive from justice.

About a week ago Baruso was arrested in Buffalo, N. Y., and Sheriff Pritchard was making arrangements to extradite him from that state when Baruso's attorneys notified him of his release.

PA NEW OBSERVES

This might be a vacation season for the students and teachers of senior high school but it's a different story for the school's office force. Right now preparations are going forward for the regular mid-term examinations which will be given within a month or so.

Jus tenuous snow falls each day to cover up the dirt from countless chimneys in the city, keeping the white blanket clean and spotless.

Four more sleeps and the New Year will be in our midst, and the bachelor boys will have to step carefully, because being Leap Year, the female of the species will have the privilege of popping the question.

Unusual sight along East Washington street Friday afternoon: man walking briskly down the street, wearing a pair of old "ear lugs".

Old Post Office Will Be Occupied

Within a week's time it is expected that the Works Progress Administration offices will be located in the old post office building at the corner of Mercer and North streets. Workmen have been put to work in the building cleaning it up, the furnace has been lighted and the electric current has been turned on preparatory to the change from the South Mill street offices. It is said that the decision to utilize the old post office comes as the result of the order of the federal government that no rents can be paid for office space as long as the government has an idle building on its hands.

If the change is made and it appears likely, it seems likely also that the relief workers who were recently transferred to the Wallace block on the public square will be transferred back to the building on South Mill street.

Tells State Educators State School Funds Must Be Increased

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 28.—Pondering a warning that state school appropriations must be "materially increased" in the next biennium if Pennsylvania is to have a real school system, delegates to the annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Association met here in final sessions today.

The criticism of the school system's financial structure was laid before 200 delegates by Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, Johnstown newspaperman and chairman of the legislative committee assigned to survey education and its costs in the state.

"While we may talk about Pennsylvania's school system," Andrews declared, "we do not actually have one. The school districts of the state are simply distant relationships of most of them poor."

"Three or four hundred thousand dollars a year would be a modest amount to spend for state experimentation in education."

"Eliminate Spoils System"

Resolutions calling for "elimination of the 'spoils system' in every phase of the public schools and broadening of the tax base to remove the burden on real estate without compelling schools to turn to depression levels, were among those adopted by the association. Recommendations for four years' minimum training for teachers.

Lindberghs Will Arrive In England, December 31

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Leadenhall and Cockspur streets, London's two great shipping centers, hummed today with speculation on possible strategy by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife and son to dodge publicity and the army of reporters and cameramen who seek to meet them wherever they land.

Bad weather encountered by the American importer in mid-Atlantic will delay the Lindberghs' arrival at Liverpool until 5 a. m. Dec. 31, according to a radiogram received today from the master of the vessel by the office of the United States lines here.

The message said the ship "expected" to make a routine call at Cobh, Southern Ireland, probably late Sunday or in the earliest hours of Monday.

At Liverpool she will tie up in No. 2 north berth of Gladstone dock. That is all that is officially admitted by the line. Whether the Lindberghs will attempt to get away before she berths is a matter of conjecture.

While the steamer offices insist the American importer is scheduled to call at Cobh, there are unofficial hints that she may cut out that southern Irish port, and even go around Ireland to the north, in order to permit the Lindberghs to leave the ship in a tender at Belfast.

There have been suggestions that Col. Lindbergh may wish to stay in Ireland for a time, completing investigations of prospective termini for the joint American-Irish-British trans-Atlantic air service.

Blame Six Deaths In Aliquippa Since Christmas On Same Source

(International News Service)

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Dec. 28.—Three more victims today were suffering from the agonies that preceded the deaths of two women and four men from poisoned "Christmas moonshine" here.

The three new victims were Mike Ralish, 46; John Opich and John Thomskey, 50.

Ralish was taken to the police station here where he told how he drank the moonshine on Christmas. He was rushed to the Providence hospital, Beaver Falls, when his condition suddenly became worse.

Opich resided in the same four-block area where the first six victims resided. Thomskey was treated at his home by Dr. J. L. Miller after his son ran into the police station and said his father was suffering pain.

Police meanwhile made a door-to-door tour of the houses and rooming houses in the tragedy-stricken section and warned residents against drinking bootleg whiskey.

Ethiopia Makes Victory Claim

Announce Capture Of Fortified City Of Abbi Addi From Enemy

ITALY DENIES CITY IS TAKEN

(International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 28.—Proclaiming proudly: "The Lion of Judah is victorious," the Ethiopian government today announced capture of the important fortified town of Abbi Addi, 25 miles west by north of Makale.

At least twenty white officers and a large number of colored troops under the Italian flag were slain, according to the communiqué, and the Italians retreated in disorder after a furious fight.

While the Abyssinians are hastily consolidating the ground they have gained, the Italians are now rushing up reinforcements to fill the gap caused by the retreat of the native troops, and a bitter struggle to regain Abbi Addi is looked for.

The communiqué also claimed that the Italians are retreating in the Scire region northwest of Abbi Addi burning the native churches that lie in their path.

Ethiopians In Surprise

Driving through the wild mountains of the Tembien, the Ethiopian force crept up on the Italian garrison, composed mostly of colored troops—Askaris—and staged a successful surprise attack, according to the government.

Although the Abyssinians faced a hail of artillery and machine gun fire, supplemented by bombing by the ever-present Italian fighting planes, they managed to inflict severe losses on the Italians as they drove out the defenders.

One hundred native soldiers were taken prisoner. The bodies of 20 Italian officers and non-commissioned officers and many native non-commissioned officers and men were found on the battlefield after the Italian retreat.

Carrigan Shot Through Lung

Sheriff Pritchard Notified He Is In Hospital In Critical Condition

WAS WANTED HERE FOR JAIL BREAKING

Anthony J. Carrigan, wanted here for jail breaking, is lying in a Covington, Ky. hospital, critically wounded by a gunshot through one lung, according to a letter received by Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard today from John Puthoff, chief of police at Covington.

The chief stated that the Covington authorities have two charges against Carrigan for participating in "armed robberies". Just how he received his wound is not stated, but it is presumed that he was shot while perpetrating one of the robberies or by an officer in making his arrest.

Chief Puthoff, stated that a guard has been placed upon Carrigan in the hospital, but it is doubtful if he will recover. He is so low that the police there have not been able to question him.

Carrigan, who was a trusty at the Lawrence county jail, walked away last summer. Sheriff Pritchard sent out descriptions of him and copies of his finger prints. It was through the finger prints sent to Washington, D. C., that it was discovered that Carrigan was wanted in New Castle for jail breaking.

In view of the fact that the Covington authorities have the graver charge against Carrigan Sheriff Pritchard said that he will not be brought back here unless he should be found innocent of the charges against him at Covington, which does not look very probable.

MacDonald Will Be Given Seat In House Of Commons

Former British Premier Will Go Into House Of Commons As Member

(International News Service)

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald today was assured a seat in the House of Commons when he was invited to be the government's candidate for the Scottish universities' seat to replace the late Noel Skelton. This is considered a "safe" constituency, and will enable MacDonald to remain in his present cabinet post of Lord President of the council.

His son, Malcolm, who is likewise in the cabinet as secretary for the dominions, although he, too, was defeated in the last election is likely to be a candidate for Ross and Cromarty, and will probably be back in parliament by March.

Sensations Develop In Thelma Todd Death Probe

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—Tension over the investigation into the mystery death of Thelma Todd, glamorous blonde film star, increased today as the grand jury prepared to conclude taking testimony in the bizarre case.

After a day of continuous hearings during which sensation after sensation fired those connected with the case, the jury adjourned until Monday when Roland West, "very close friend" of Miss Todd and her financial backer in the "Sidewalk Cafe", is expected to be the star witness.

Were To Accompany Star

First of the new sensations were statements by "Duke" York, film actor, and "Lord" Lansdowne, light heavyweight wrestler, that they had planned to accompany Miss Todd to a cocktail party at the home of Wallace Ford, movie star, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 15.

One of the major mysteries of the case had been a telephone call Mrs. Ford reported Miss Todd had made to her that afternoon—hours after police believed Miss Todd had died in the garage at the home of West, the apparent victim of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Mrs. Ford said Miss Todd had told her:

"You'll drop dead when you see who I'm bringing to your party."

York told the grand jury:

"I was the man, it was to be a 'gag' that would 'wow' the party."

New York Governor Takes Active Command Of State Crime Drive

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Governor Herbert H. Lehman will take active command of an unprecedented drive on crime in the metropolitan area, it became known today.

The executive, it was reported, was shocked and outraged by reports that a "secret crime cabinet" of 12 had been found to be directing all the city's known rackets and mulcting thousands of people of millions of dollars yearly.

The governor's first step today will be to order the impaneling of another special grand jury to succeed the one that for the past several months has been investigating rackets in New York in conjunction with special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey. The governor also may name a new extraordinary term of the supreme court to take care of racket investigation cases.

The governor was grim-faced and determined as he announced his intention to stamp out racketeering.

Passengers Escape Serious Injury In Slight Wreck

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—Passengers in five coaches were shaken up, but escaped injury, when an eastbound Pittsburgh & Lake Erie train piled into a runaway Baltimore & Ohio freight train at a track crossing under the Center street bridge here today.

Eight coal cars were upset and the locomotive of the passenger train was derailed.

Railroad officials said brakes on the freight train had become frozen and the engineer was unable to stop for the P. & L. E. passenger train to cross the tracks. The passenger crashed into the rear of the freight.

Milne Kidnap Case Was Hoax It Is Admitted

Youth Admits He Carried Out Entire Sensation To Get Publicity

IS ARRESTED AS HE CONFESSES

Officials Announce Confession Of Hoax Early This Morning

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Caleb Jones Milne 4th, actor, mystery story writer and heir to Philadelphia textile millions, today was held in $7,500 bail for arraignment January 9 on a charge of attempted extortion through use of the mails as the result of his hoax kidnapping two weeks ago.

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Caleb Jones Milne, 4th, handsome young society actor and heir to Philadelphia textile millions, today confessed his "brutal kidnapping" of two weeks ago was a hoax.

He confessed after more than ten hours of grilling at the New York headquarters of the G-men. Head G-Man J. Edgar Hoover, who came here from Washington last night, made the announcement in person that the widely publicized kidnapping had been "solved."

Sought Publicity

Hoover said Milne carried out the fantastic plot, which set police of at least two states and G-men in a dozen cities into action at a cost of thousands of dollars, in order to get publicity, which he felt might be helpful to his stage career.

Milne got the publicity; plenty of it. Later today he was to get a rough idea of what he will receive along with the publicity when he is taken before the United States commissioner here.

The dark-eyed youth was placed under arrest immediately after his confession and locked up. Hoover would not say, but it was believed the charge would be attempted extortion, or obstructing justice.

Assistant U. S. Attorney J. Howard Carter admitted to newspapermen he did not know exactly what charge would be brought. As he entered his office he said:

"From what I read, I can't say now what charge will be brought. There seems to be some question as to whether the boy mailed the ransom letter himself. In order to charge extortion we must show there was intent."

Later he went into conference with Harold O. Nathan, who was in command of the G-men on the case, and Rhea Whitley, head of the New York office of the Bureau of Investigation.

Milne disappeared from his E. Thirty-Seventh street apartment on Saturday, Dec. 14. Within 24 hours a ransom letter was received by his brother from supposed kidnappers.

Found In Ditch

The letter contained instructions for Milne's millionaire grandfather.

GOVERNOR CAN'T SAVE BRUNO

Hoffman Says He Is Without Power

Supreme Court Justice Only Man Who Can Grant Any Reprieve

GOVERNOR OUTLINES POSITION IN CASE

(International News Service)
TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 28.—If the New Jersey court of pardons turns down Bruno Richard Hauptmann's plea for commutation of sentence, there will remain only one man in the state with undisputed power to save him from death in the electric chair the week of January 13.

This man is Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided over Hauptmann's trial at Flemington, N. J., and who has already sentenced the Bronx carpenter twice to the chair.

Governor Without Power
Governor Harold Hoffman made this clear today when he stated that a recent legal opinion given him held that he lacked the power to grant a reprieve to Hauptmann if he should so desire.

In the event of an active emergency, however, the governor said he was sure Warden Mark O. Kimberling of the state prison would honor his request that execution be delayed.

Asked to clarify his activities in the Hauptmann case, the governor said: "My attitude is still one of inquiry into the various phases of the case. My impression now of the law, gained from authorities, is that I am without power to reprieve Hauptmann at all."

"Power to reprieve, under a law that goes back to 1897, must be exercised within 90 days after sentence. Hauptmann was first sentenced last February 13, and power to reprieve expired about May 13. Hauptmann's later resentencing was a technicality."

TELLS EDUCATORS, SCHOOL FUNDS MUST BE INCREASED

ers and a study of the desirability of modifying the permanent certification law also were passed. At today's final general session results of balloting on officers, committee members, National Education Convention delegates and the 1936 convention site were to be announced. Will Durant, noted author and lecturer, was to deliver the final address of the full three-day program, speaking on "The crisis in American civilization."

Among other proposals, the legislative committee recommended continued support of a move to amend the state constitution to create a lay board of education whose members, with overlapping terms, would be empowered to elect the superintendent of public instruction and remove that officer "from the hazards of politics."

Three Conclusions
Andrews, whose committee was given $10,000 for his investigation said the legislators had reached three conclusions in their inquiry so far. The committee has found, he said, that the state aid program has not equalized educational opportunity, that the commonwealth should furnish a "mandated minimum education program," and that the ability to pay in a majority of the school districts is a variable factor.

"The financial structure of educational administration in the state is a thing of shreds and patches rather than financial sanity," Andrews stated. "The committee is attempting to locate financial responsibility, which is now decentralized."

"We may actually be compelled to spend more for education, but it will not always be necessary to spend the same amounts in the same places. There are districts which must be carried by the state and others which could operate without assistance. The needy districts must be aided."

"Two other speakers, each a well-known educator, rounded out the second day's program. Dr. Francis P. Gaines, president of Washington and Lee university, declared the "educational process in this democracy has ignored a note of obligation to every child in it."

Support of the nation's ideals is not a matter of technique or philosophy, he said; rather, the child should be taught to support the democracy as "a sort of contract of honor."

Education is the "primary means of realizing the purposes of democracy itself," Alexander J. Stoddard, superintendent of schools at Providence, R. I., and president of the NEA department of superintendence, told the delegates. "Independent thinking is our surest guarantee that our country will never fall into the hands of a few individuals or groups of individuals who may desire to use it for selfish ends."

ETHIOPIA MAKES VICTORY CLAIMS of the Ethiopian force that it was claimed yesterday, severed the Italian line of communications on the road northwest of Makale and northeast of Abbi Addi.

Slight Reference
Rome, Dec. 28.—A passing reference to the "combs" of Abbi Addi Dec. 22, "concluded in today's official military communique and other minor clashes and aerial activity on the northern front were reported, but semi-official sources branded Addi Ababa accounts of the fall of Abbi Addi as "highly improbable."

"In the combat of Abbi Addi Dec. 22, the 22nd Eritrean battalion (composed of native troops) particularly distinguished itself," said the communique.

Italians Slowly Push South
Asmara, Eritrea, Dec. 28.—Ebbing waters of the temperamental Tak-kaze river were blamed by the Italians today for their admitted inability to hold that front intact against the thrusts of Ethiopian tribesmen.

On the eastern wing of the northern front, however, Italian positions in the Makale region are slowly being pushed to the south, at the same time bulging out to the flanks, and Italian advance guards are today reported within a short distance of Amba Alagi.

Forty miles straight south through the mountain passes from Makale, Amba Alagi was the scene of a crushing Italian defeat 40 years ago, and has long been regarded as the possible site of the Ethiopians' major stand.

Correspondents at Italian army headquarters here would not be surprised to learn soon of the occupation of Amba Alagi, although there is no confirmation as yet that a big Italian offensive is on.

Probe Alleged Attack On Woman
Garfield Lowe, 1119 Moravia street, was arrested by city police at 4 a. m. today on a charge of suspicion.

He was suspected of having attacked Mrs. Mary Crawford, rear 22 Reynolds street at the P. R. R. crossing, Moravia street.

She received a fractured leg and was taken to the New Castle hospital. Lowe, it was alleged by police, fled when William Harris went to the rescue of Mrs. Crawford. All parties are colored. Lowe is held pending a full investigation of the charge.

Alliquippa, Pa., Dec. 28.—Six more persons were stricken today with the same painful agonies that resulted in the deaths of two women and a man who drank poisoned "Christmas moonshine" in West Alliquippa.

As the half dozen new victims were reported, Chief of Police W. L. Ambrose lodged a charge of involuntary manslaughter against Peter Adamovich, accused as the dispenser of the lethal beverage.

Near Final Goal In Home Drive

Reports Show Over $8400 Is Pledged For Margaret Henry Home

There is every reason to believe that the campaign for the Margaret L. Henry Home for Children will be a success. At the report meeting held Friday evening in the Castleton Hotel, a total of $8400 was reported, against a quota of $9600. All reports are not yet in and Captain R. W. Roland, general chairman of the drive believes that by Tuesday when the campaign will be wound up, the $9600 will be subscribed.

"This has been a most satisfactory campaign," said Captain Rowland today. "In spite of the fact that most everybody was busy during the Christmas season, in spite of the inclement weather, the workers have gone out and secured the subscriptions that will keep the Margaret L. Henry Home for Children open next year."

"As general chairman I am most grateful for the co-operation extended me and the workers in this campaign. On next Tuesday night I hope that we will go over the $9600 mark and thus guarantee the operation of the Home for 1936."

Defective Flue Sets Home Afire

Small Damage Results From Blaze In Hanna Street Home On Friday

Two companies were called to the home of Henry Zak, of 1511 Hanna street at 5:55 Friday evening, when a small fire resulted from a brick falling from the chimney in the cellar. The support for the floor took fire, causing damage of around $50.

Later in the evening the Fourth ward and B truck companies were called to the Rodgers Motor Car company at 460 East Washington street, when an electric light bulb burst as a car was being repaired, setting fire to the machine. Damage amounted to around $25.

THREE MORE ARE SUFFERING FROM POISON LIQUOR

Peter Adamovich, from whom two of the victims said they bought the lethal liquor, and Rudy Lawlie 45, Lawrence, the second to be taken, was arrested by federal and state agents who aided Police Chief W. L. Ambrose raid his farm near the West Virginia line. Chief Ambrose expressed a belief the poison liquor may have come from the Lawlie farm where two barrels of mash were confiscated.

Adamovich was arrested after a 15-gallon barrel of moonshine was found cunningly concealed in the fire place in his home.

Results of an analysis made by a Pittsburgh laboratory were expected today. They were expected to confirm the suspicion of Dr. Miller, who treated the victims, that the "moonshine" contained wood alcohol. Autopsies were made on several of the victims.

The first death occurred early Christmas day and the others followed in rapid succession. The dead were: Mrs. Milka Zarkovich, 45; Mike Wassowsky, 61; Mike Maravich, 40; Mrs. Anna Beckish, 46; John Gora, 50, and George Gergich, 51.

Caleb J. Milne, Jr., of Philadelphia, to have $20,000 in cash available for a ransom payment. Then, on the Wednesday night following the "kidnaping," Milne was found bound, gagged and blindfolded in a ditch along a highway near Doylestown, Pa.

There were a score of peculiar punctures in his arm, as though caused by a hypodermic needle of the kind used for injection of drugs. The youth was apparently delirious and in a pitiful condition.

"Don't! Don't!" He screamed. "The needles—don't!" The young thespian must have put on a good act. He was kept in the Doylestown Emergency hospital for two days and while the nine G-men who stayed with him would not deny the case was a hoax, they wouldn't admit they were suspicious either.

Under Guard
Milne was removed to his mother's home in Woodstock, N. Y., last Saturday. He was guarded there until last night when he was brought here to confront a small army of G-men, New York police officials and Hoover himself.

Hoover explained Milne spent most of the time after his disappearance in Trenton, N. J., until the night he tied himself up and flopped into the ditch near Doylestown. The Bureau of Investigation chief said Milne admitted making the "hypodermic scars" on his arm with a pin.

There was an atmosphere of hearts and flowers around the Bureau of Investigation offices as the G-men and New York police set in together on the conclusion of the case. There was no trace of friction which began when the federal agents early in the case charged the New York police with withholding information there had been a kidnapping for 24 hours.

Announces Confession
At that time the hard-boiled New York cops had retorted they had listed the case as one of a "missing person" and not a kidnapping. Later, when it appeared Milne actually had been kidnapped, the G-men refused to let Manhattan detectives see Milne at Doylestown.

Hoover announced Milne's confession at 5:30 a. m. to half a hundred newspapermen amid furious popping of photographers' flash bulbs. "Young Milne has made a full confession," Hoover said. "He said he was in desperate financial condition, and since he was seeking work on the stage, he thought the publicity would get him a job."

fied the authorities here they were willing to produce him and end the long legal game of tag.

Baruso came to New Castle today from Youngstown, O., his lawyers, J. G. Hartwell and Nathan Kaufman preceding him. Attorney Edwin K. Logan represented Baruso here and after the plea of guilty Mr. Logan made a plea for leniency for Baruso.

"Pulled A Fast One"
Logan told the court that in his original plea of guilty to conspiracy Baruso had been told by Tony Natale of New Castle that he would be paroled if he entered the plea. Later, Logan said, Baruso found that Natale had no official sanction to any such arrangement and Baruso decided that Natale had "pulled a fast one."

"Baruso became alarmed and afraid," said Logan "when he learned that no deal had been made. It was not his purpose to evade the law and all of the steps following developed out of the fact that Baruso didn't know where he stood."

Attorney Nathan Kaufman appeared for Baruso following Logan's plea and said "I appear here more as a friend than an attorney for Mr. Baruso. He has been kind to me, he has been kind to many people. When he had the money he shared it with unfortunate people, and I have received no fee nor will I for appearing here today. Baruso was not banking the numbers game here. He had loaned $350 to some numbers operators here to pay some hits and the day of the raid he was here trying to collect his money. He is a sick man, has a severe hernia which is liable to strangle and I present a doctor's statement showing his condition. I will be glad to stand the expense of an examination here by a physician, if the court wants it done."

Hildebrand Sentences
President Judge R. L. Hildebrand pronounced the sentence, perhaps the last sentence he will pronounce from the Lawrence county bench as he leaves on Monday, January 6, 1936. "We do not feel that this man is an ordinary numbers writer," said Judge Hildebrand. "He has been the head of a numbers game. If he is in the condition his counsel says the institution where he is going has physician where he can be treated." The sentence of the court is $1000 and costs of the prosecution, and six months to the Allegheny County Workhouse. We feel that we are justified in making the same exemption in this case we have made in others, if the defendant pays the fine and costs, we will entertain a petition for a parole at the expiration of half the sentence. You stand committed."

All during the sentence Baruso stood with his head bowed. As he heard the sentence he looked up at the court and in a low tone of voice said "thank you." He was led away to the county jail from where he will be taken to the Allegheny County Work House in a few days.

He is a man of about 65 years of age and in the past seven months has caused considerable running around for the officials of this county. The trips of Sheriff Pritchard and District Attorney Mont L. Alley to Harrisburg, to Columbus, to Buffalo, N. Y., and to Youngstown will probably be a part of the cost bill and it is likely that the costs will run upwards of $500.

Big Clothing Theft At Chester
State Police teletype located at the city police station today carried a report of a big clothing store robbery last night at Chester, Pa. The theft was one of the largest reported in Pennsylvania during the past few months. Women's garments of all kinds were stolen. Stores in various cities have been looted during the past few months.

RAINBOW DANCE IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Order of the Rainbow for Girls annual Christmas dance, at Scottish Rite Cathedral, Friday evening, was a most beautiful spectacle, and a brilliant success of the season with 250 couples of the younger set enjoying the excellent dance program.

It was a lovely sight, with the young girls in their vari-colored holiday formal, in a ballroom setting made most attractive with tinsel Christmas trees and shrubs. A large painted rainbow back of the platform, where a popular orchestra played rhythmic music throughout the evening, was prominently displayed by the use of colored lights.

Members of the Advisory board acted as chaperones for the happy group many of whom were from surrounding towns, Grove City, Ellwood City, Beaver Falls and New Wilmington, augmented by many of the college set from various places.

Rainbow dances are invitational affairs, bringing together a most select crowd of young people who always eagerly anticipate the parties as delightful events and they were not disappointed last night.

The committee upon which credit is reflected was headed by Worthy Advisor Viola Dufford, capably assisted by Jane Bryan, Glenna Goad, Eleanor McFall, Eileen Wray, Naomi Kennedy, the Mother Advisor, Mrs. Gula Hess, the chairman from the advisory board, Mrs. Lenora M. Urey. Mrs. Belva Bridenbaugh was chairman of the refreshment committee.

Bridge '35 Club Meets

Most enjoyable, was the gathering of Bridge '35 members held on a recent evening in the home of Mrs. Harold D. Pyle, Meyer avenue, the occasion being their bi-weekly event. The hours were devoted to cards. Mrs. Robert Adams and Mrs. Herman Rhodes carrying off the prizes. A special feature was the shower of dainty handkerchiefs honoring the birthday anniversaries of Mrs. Louis Gunton and Mrs. Harold D. Pyle.

Lunch, served in the diningroom at a table elaborately decorated in Yuletide fashion, unique gum-drop lamps as favors, were lighted for a moment, adding to the enjoyment of the evening. An exchange of gifts, brought the program to a close.

FIELD CLUB PARTIES HEAD SEASONS PROGRAM

With perfect Christmas weather, ground, trees, house-tops and all other objects being completely hidden with snow, it hasn't hindered the crowds from attending events scheduled at the New Castle Field Club, during the holiday season.

Despite many snowdrifts, a special crew has been kept busy in cleaning the highway and entrances to the club house, making driving an easy matter for members and their guests. This contradicts rumors that have been circulated to the effect that lanes leading to the club house are impassable, owing to the snowdrifts. The passages are kept cleared at all times.

Last evening, a nice assemblage motored to the club and enjoyed another of the holiday festivities, which took the form of a bridge for men and women. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Matthews presided as hosts, and the period of card playing, proved of unusual interest. Novel prizes fell to Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Patterson and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Strayer. An appetizing repast, appropriate to chilly evenings, was served at a later hour.

Much enthusiasm is being registered for the New Year's Eve dance next Tuesday. These annual frolics have always proven exceedingly popular with the younger college set home for vacation, as well as their elders, who look forward to beginning the New Year in this fashion. The dance will begin at 10 o'clock, and an exciting bit of entertainment has been provided. In addition, a favorite orchestra of the membership, has been engaged, with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Shira, hosts. Indications point to a capacity crowd.

Joint Gathering.

A joint meeting of the Rose of Sharon class and the Fuller Circle, from the Croton avenue Methodist Episcopal church, took place Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Florence Cook, Garfield avenue.

Co-hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Amy McCreary, Mrs. Fred Hill, Mrs. Frank Hill, Mrs. Ed. Hill and Mrs. Vane Johns.

Mrs. Johns led the devotions. A feature of the informal program which followed was a gift exchange the presentation by the Rose of Sharon class of a lovely present to their teacher, Mrs. Fred Hill.

Various games were enjoyed and the prize winners were Mrs. Mildred Doerr, Miss Mary Nunn, Miss Mary Brown. Miss Brown was a special guest.

A delicious lunch was served.

S. M. F. Club Guests.

Miss Ruth Simon of Northview avenue was hostess to members of the S. M. F. club Thursday evening at their annual Christmas party. Gifts were exchanged as the major feature, in a setting so appropriate to the season. Cards occupied a part of the early period, with Nedra Sargeant winning the prize.

In serving a dainty collation, the hostess was assisted by Dorothy Frey. Yuletide appointments prevailed throughout. Their next meeting, on January 2, is scheduled to be held at the residence of Mary Gretta Jackson on Morton street.

"Christmas in Other Countries," told in a most interesting manner, by Miss Mary Bullano, proved one of the highlights of the program. Bridge and 500 were the chief diversions. The bridge prize was awarded to Miss Ann Burgo and the 500 prize to Miss Rose Sacripant. Miss Lenora Molinari of Pittsburgh was a special guest.

Miss Marie Tomasello was in charge of the menu and favors while Miss Ann Burgo headed the program committee. The event was a marked success.

G. G. Club

Peggy Jennings was a pleasing young hostess to the G. G. club Thursday evening, at her home on Butler avenue. An exchange of gifts, bridge, music and refreshments combined to make the affair enjoyable. With Harriet Hemphill at the piano, favorite songs were sung. The next meeting, in two weeks, will be at the home of Carol Ransome, of East Main street.

EXPECT HUGE CROWD AT CHARITY BALL

Indications point to a capacity crowd at the New Castle Field club tonight when the Junior Guild of the Jameson Memorial hospital stages a charity ball. The proceeds of the ball will be used by the Guild to refurbish the sun parlor of the hospital.

In preparation for the crowd that will attend the snow has been shoveled from the driveways of the Field club and adequate parking facilities free of snow are assured.

The ball begins at 10 o'clock and during the evening a lunch will be served by the women of the Guild. The Junior Guild is composed of the younger women of the city and although just a new organization has taken hold of work for the hospital in a splendid manner.

THOSE SMART GIRLS

THERE is no intention of viewing with alarm a moral of anything, but when girls win all but one of the twelve major awards in the essay contest arranged by the Chamber of Commerce of the state of New York it is possible for a representative of the submerged sex at least to wonder whether it is drifting.

Essays used to be "compositions" in distant days of youth and the at that time dominant sex was not so hot when it came to compositions. Still that 11 to 1 proportion gives pause to the thoughtful. It becomes even more significant when it is realized that the subject for consideration was "Why Am I Being Given An Education?" Obviously the boys were stumped for an answer. But the girls were not; they knew perfectly well. One right after another, three young misses got up in the main hall of the Chamber of Commerce and composedly and with appropriate gestures told why. First and second were 17 years old and the third was only 13, though a veteran in such contests. The lone boy came from Brooklyn, which may have helped, that borough having long been noted for many things, including composition writing and the gentler arts.

Ninety-one and two-thirds per cent of the total credits go to the girls. Of course the male alibi must have been that writing compositions was, after all, a sissified pursuit. Still it must have been a blow to the most brazen male to have been an also ran.

THE SUPREME COURT IS NEWS

Since public interest is reflected by the press, there is significance in the consensus of editors and press associations that supreme court ruling affecting New Deal policy compose "the leading news story" of the year.

Even Mussolini's war in Ethiopia is second to the burning question as to the fate of a program which thoughtful persons more and more recognize as striking at the very heart of the American system of government.

Since the strength and sanity of democratic government depend upon the average of intelligence among the electorate, it should be encouraging to know that public concern over the fate of doctrines subversive of our institutions indicates renewed recognition of the truth that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

NEW STATE HIGHWAY PATROL TROOP

The state highway patrol is undoubtedly one of the greatest factors working for safety upon the highways and any addition to its numbers will aid the enforcement of laws designed to eliminate automobile accidents.

Harry E. Kalodner, secretary of revenue, recently announced that 100 men will be added to the patrol and that a new troop headquarters will be established at Franklin.

This is one of the most significant moves in the state's highway safety campaign. Motor clubs and other representative groups of citizens have recognized the value of adequate patrolling of the highways and were instrumental in securing the increased personnel.

The state highway patrol commands real respect for the method in which it operates and the success it has achieved. It merits public co-operation and the respect of all automobile drivers.

POISON GAS MYTH

Wiping out by poison gas the population of great cities has been characterized by credulous or sensational writers as a horror to be expected in the next great war. Civilization has trembled at the prospect. It is a vast relief, therefore, to be told by an undoubted authority that there is no warrant for such belief. Professor J. Enrique Zanetti, who was a lieutenant colonel in the American chemical warfare service in 1918-1919 and is an expert in this field, reassures humanity by pointing out that chemical warfare has the sharpest of limitations.

Professor Zanetti's theme is "Debunking Poison Gas." He asserts that of seventeen chemical agents employed in the World War only three were used in the close and of these the usefulness of two was questioned. That left mustard gas, which is not a gas at all but a liquid that had to be shot in vast quantities and with deadly accuracy from guns, as the chief casualty medium.

Germans and Allies combined used 12,000 tons of mustard gas, but though it produced 350,000 casualties, only 9,000 of them died or one man to each one and one-third tons. That pretty well disposes of the idea that with any gas now known to be existent one airplane could destroy the population of a large city.

Twenty-nine casualties per ton occurred from mustard gas in the World War when placed with precision in open fields by carefully trained artillery. Dropping it on cities from airplanes would be another story, the author maintains. He divests it of some of its legendary character by saying that street cleaners and firemen with their hose could wash most of it down the sewers.

How nice to be rich, so you can have a country estate with the quiet and privacy that a poor hill-billy enjoys.

A beggar doesn't hate the man who refuses to help him. He hates the one who helps him for a while and then quits.

The New York anti-noise campaign would eliminate the racket of riveting, so there must be riveting again in New York.

In St. Louis the upper crust has a council designed to correct "the evils and abuses of the St. Louis social system." It is a planned society?

But why should we expect more from the Philippines in this matter of successful self-government than we do from the rest of the nations that are struggling along, hitting on two cylinders?

Whence Comes Wealth?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE PRINCE of Peace may have been surprised when he saw the President going to church on Christmas Day after 1900 years of "Christian civilization."

First came six heavily armed policemen on motorcycles, clearing the way, with eyes to detect suspicious purposes. Then came members of the presidential family in White House limousines and behind them a phalanx of secret service men, armed to the teeth, more than ready to shoot.

THE FOUNDER of Christianity may have been surprised also, listening to the sermon by an energetic (Continued on Page Seven)

NOTHING AT ALL. A man felt sleepy, undressed, took a bath, scrubbed his teeth and went to bed.

Then he couldn't sleep. Although he had thought he was well, suddenly he felt ill. His face was flushed, his head ached, he thought he was dizzy. He got up and gargled with salt water, then went back to bed. Still he couldn't sleep. His throat was dry, his mind raced wildly.

He decided to think about something else, anything else that would take his mind from his physical condition. So he thought about his childhood, about the war, about football, about bridge, about his summer vacation, about a book about politics and taxation and Christmas. But always his mind raced back to his own physical self and how he was feeling.

In a flash he had a hunch that he was going to be seriously ill. And how would he arrange his work at the office? Or would he be so sick that he wouldn't think of it? Why worry about that anyway? If a man is out, he's out, and somebody else does the work. If he's sick or if he dies, the gap fills up and his soon forgotten. The man, in the black of night, convinced himself that some terrible germ was working in him. He didn't know the name of the germ but he was SURE it was working in him right at that moment. He was going to be SICK and it was going to be very tough on his family and on himself, too.

And then he fell asleep. But when he awakened the next morning, he felt FINE! His head didn't ache, his throat wasn't dry, he wasn't a BIT sick.

What had it been—a nightmare or a panic? Had he dreamed all the apprehension or had his conscious self really put on that fantastic act? He didn't know, couldn't be sure he HAD gotten out of bed and gargled, never would know what had happened to him. But he HAD thought he was sick and now he knew he wasn't. And isn't it funny how big a baby a man can be?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE FAITHFUL FRIEND

Men and dogs are alike in one respect. Their brains don't grow on their family trees.

The other day two Los Angeles policemen saw a couple of three-year-old tots and a dog of uncertain ancestry wandering around the streets. It was apparent that the youngsters were lost and the officers tried to find out where they lived, without success.

One of the cops knew something about dogs and suggested that they follow the mongrel and see what happened. They did. Sure enough, the party finally reached an auto park, the last stop on the family's pilgrimage from the Middle West. The distracted mother ran to meet them, and all was well.

The cops received the grateful thanks of the parents and doggle a bone.

The World At A Glance

Railroads Are Swamped.
Christmas Business Heavy.
Writer Gives Experiences.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

EN ROUTE SOUTHWEST, Dec. 28.—Thousands of people traveled during the Christmas holidays. They may be happy to hear a fellow traveler give voice to their common experience.

This writer was traveling with an ill wife, hastening to a warmer climate.

But he had forgotten that the railroads had made no provisions during the last several years for an increase in business, nor were they prepared to take care of peaks efficiently.

The matter could be overlooked if it were merely one of inconvenience to passengers for a few days. But it is not so simple. It probably is a warning signal that, should freight business increase, the American railroad plant would be incapable of taking on the additional load.

And business upturn could be strangled in the railroad breakdown that followed.

While industrial capacity has been increased, even through the depression (due to improved processes), the railroad plant not only has not been modernized, but it has depreciated. And railroads have trained no new personnel, nor do progressive younger men seem to have gained any foothold in management.

EXPERIENCES
The writer and his wife started out from Cleveland, O.

They were supposed to go on one of the best trains. Blizzard? Well, the blizzard might have delayed it some.

No—not blizzard. Business. More Christmas mail, more Christmas express, more Christmas passengers than the railroad could handle.

And the writer soon learned it wasn't merely this one railroad. Every other railroad suffered the same fate.

A special train was made up at Cleveland. The equipment seemed antiquated.

Around noon, men, women and children—especially children—began to feel hungry. But there was no diner, although, from Toledo on, a club-lounge car, with equipment to serve food, was attached. But it was being "dodgy-headed." The public was not permitted to go into it.

Finally, when murmurs began to rise among the passengers, trainmen held the train 15 minutes at Elkhart, Ind., for passengers to grab a lunch at a small lunch counter.

We grabbed a sandwich. All the while, the train was being "dodgy-headed."

Finally, it arrived at Chicago. A porter condescended to carry luggage to a transfer bus. But, in spite of a generous tip, this porter dumped the luggage in the wrong place. The writer rescued it, and carried the five pieces to the proper place.

Then, at the other station, when the bus arrived, the writer had to plead with some authority to find a porter. There was no voluntary effort to aid passengers.

By that time the ailing wife was somewhat more ailing.

WORSE YET
That night we proceeded from Chicago. The train again started late—although it originated at Chicago.

It was loading mail and express. By morning it was three hours late.

Suddenly, about noon the following day, a pleasant and embarrassed porter told us we should be dumped out of our sleeper at Little Rock, Ark., although our passage read through to Hot Springs, Ark., and the car was scheduled to go through to Hot Springs.

The railroad did not have enough cars to permit this car to complete its trip, since the train was so late.

We were dumped out at Little Rock, Ark. And an agent of the railroad seemed to consider it all our fault. But the porter on our car was more of a diplomat. He had our luggage transferred to another car—a dirty, stuffy affair—and he continued on the journey with us to our destination.

Again we had no dinner nor any stop for lunch on this makeshift train.

Yet we had paid highly for riding on these railroads, we had believed all the published information as to splendid equipment, and we were ready to spread the good word among our friends.

As it is, my wife, exhausted and ill, remarks: "Whenever possible hereafter, we shall drive."

But I do not believe that should be the case. I believe that the railroads should submit to a New Deal management of their own. They are a necessity, they have many splendid and willing executives, but there is stagnation at the top.

If the business upturn becomes stronger, there is danger they may strangle it through the ineptness and inefficiency of the men who control their managements.

Incidentally, why couldn't the railroads have moved the heavy cars of mail and express as fast as our passenger cars? They could have run the passenger cars through on regular schedules? They had the equipment to do that—but for 100 years trains have been made up in this particular manner and it might be considered sacrilegious to change, even though all the passenger business is lost because of it.

Dec. 28, 1917—One of the biggest hoaxes of modern times was perpetrated. It's still fooling people. In his regular column in the New York Evening Mail, H. L. Mencken wrote what purported to be a history of the bathtub. He said the tub was unknown in the world until the 1840s and that it was then invented in Cincinnati. He declared that the medical men of the United States unanimously opposed the new invention as dangerous to health, and that laws against it were passed in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

The article was intended to be a plain piece of spoofing. It was taken seriously. It was republished in serious journals and commented upon. Cincinnati boosters proudly pointed to it as evidence of Queen City enterprise. It began to appear as fact in histories and encyclopedias.

Once Mencken tried to expose his hoax, and letters poured in upon him, corroborating it!

It reserved a right on other State enjoys—to divide itself up into other states. It could lop off enough territory to provide another Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina and Vermont and still have enough to be as big as West Virginia!

It's True—Martin Waldseemüller, the German professor who suggested America as the name for this country, didn't take his own suggestion seriously. Six years later, when he published a geography with maps of the New World, he did not use the name America!

Crude rubber is not elastic. When prime minister of England, William E. Gladstone had to leave Parliament each afternoon to go home and hold his wife's hand while she had a nap. If he didn't, she couldn't sleep.

An opportunity well taken is the only weapon of advantage.—John Udale.

TODAY'S STORYETTE
President Carlyle Campbell of Coker college at a students' tea in Hartville defended Nature against a pupil's argument that made out Nature is cruel.

Doctor Campbell praised Nature's kindness.

"For instance, what could be kinder and more considerate," he said, "than the wonderful contrivance by means of which she prevents a man from being disturbed by his own snoring?"

The cause of radicalism isn't always economic. Anything that makes you sore at the world will do it.

In the divorce case of Evelyn J. Perrine against John A. Perrine, in which the defendant had asked for a jury trial, the request was withdrawn, in a petition presented to the court by Perrine. Judge Chambers granted the request.

County Commissioner-elect, Joseph Hannon, was a visitor at the court house this morning. Things have changed at the court house since Mr. Hannon was commissioner before, particularly salaries. Then he received but $1,000 per year. The salary for county commissioners is now $3,000.

Mrs. Margaret Hartzell, mother of Hugh M. Campbell, for whom the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company is guardian, presented a petition in court this morning asking for an allowance to pay the premium on an insurance policy and $75 with which to buy clothing and other supplies for her son. The petition was granted.

Harold Wine, before the court on a non-support charge, was directed to pay his wife $15 per month for the support of herself and child.

In connection with the sentencing of drunken driver James R. L. Hildebrand let a significant remark, while a plea for leniency was urged in behalf of one of the there on. "The man who comes in practically safe from himself," said the Judge. Both Judge Hildebrand and Judge Chambers have taken the position that drunken driving is one of the crimes where leniency are of little or no value. The court has a well established policy that for drunken drivers, no matter what their standing or social position, must suffer the consequences of their acts. There are a fine of a hundred dollars or a fine of a hundred dollars but the court consistently imposed jail sentences on all comers. The sentence is usually coupled with fines of $100 and costs. The only way for motorists to stay out of jail is to refrain from drinking when they drive a car. The drunken driver is a menace on the highway, and all good citizens commend the court for the policy that has been pursued in Lawrence County.

Three constables, recently re-elected, qualified for another term yesterday by filing bonds and taking the oath of office. The constables were Robert McClenahan of Pulaski township; Glenn C. Martin of New Wilmington; and Raymond Talley of Wampum. All three constables have very good records. Bonds were filed in the sum of $1,000 each.

County officials miss a lot of the calendar boys who used to bring calendars around about this time of year. In the old days it was hard to find enough places on the walls to display the gaudily printed calendars, but now there are very few being distributed and officials are mighty glad to get a calendar to adorn their walls. The big calendars have become too expensive for most farms, and those which are being distributed are mostly small ones.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard is still waiting for a letter from the Covington, Ky. officials who have Anthony Carrigan escaped prisoner from the Lawrence county jail in custody. According to word received by the sheriff the authorities have checked up the finger prints of the man whom they have arrested with finger prints of Carrigan, in the files at Washington, D. C. and there is no question but that the right man is under arrest.

Every morning since the snow fell Janitors E. C. McCracken and Clifford James have cleared the snow from Court street in front of the court house steps, and every morning some one has parked an automobile on the cleaned spot. The janitors want the public to know that the snow is swept off this particular place in order that occupants of cars may be unloaded there. Cars should be taken further up the street, if they are to be parked.

BOSTON, Dec. 28.—Critics of Senator Borah (R) of Idaho were in Washington today, after the senator criticized today by Robert M. La Follette (TR) club of Massachusetts and head of the Borah movement in this state.

"They say Borah is shifty," declared Washburn. "If so, because of this he has one advantage over those critics of his that, unlike them, he is sometimes right. He does jar those who never do today what they did yesterday and who show more when they are backing water. It is better to be inconsistently right than consistently wrong. Some people hereabouts are more interested in haircuts than in political principles."

Col. Frank Knox Flails Policies Of Administration At Washington

SPEAKS TO OHIO EDITORS AND GUESTS

By EDWARD E. STEVENS
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28.—Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher, left Ohio today for Washington after flailing the Roosevelt administration as a "hydra-headed octopus," going into a campaign year with $6,000,000 public moneys to spend.

Knox, considered one of the outstanding aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination in 1936, bitterly attacked the national administration before 500 Ohio Republican editors and their guests, but refrained from any reference to his own candidacy.

"No Sham Battle." "This is no sham battle," he warned the Ohio group, an audience composed almost entirely of active Republican party workers. "President Roosevelt still has between three and four billion dollars left out of that blank check the congress voted him against the earnings of the American people.

"It is allocated, of course, but under the administration rules of government these allocations can be changed over night. Nearly $3,840,000,000 of the $4,880,000,000 granted by congress, ostensibly for relief, still is unexpended. There will be nearly $2,600,000,000 more public moneys for expenditure next year," Knox declared.

And There's Farley. "They deny it will be used for 'political purposes'. But what do you think? Sitting beside the president in the political affairs of the administration is Mr. James Farley of Tammany Hall, New York.

"You may be sure that Mr. Farley has—if the president has not—a very realistic attitude toward the problem of getting votes."

The administration has forsaken the pledges made in the Democratic platform, Knox alleged.

"There are those who will not agree when I call the administration a socialistic administration. But they will find that Mr. Roosevelt has written into law, wholly or in part, the 12 principal planks of the Socialist platform.

Public sentiment has moved away from the Roosevelt administration, Knox said. He warned, however, that the American people must be "roused to their peril."

Charge Large Sum Paid In Youngstown To Employees Illegal

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 28.—Youngstown's financial affairs between August 3, 1932, and August 1, 1934, stood condemned as a "farce" today by State Examiner Walter Jones who reported that the city paid out $301,624.45 illegally during that period.

Charging that payments were made to employees whose employment and salaries were not authorized by city council and that many purchases of goods were not awarded on competitive bids, Jones recalled an official scandal which occurred in Pittsburgh a few years ago for the same reasons.

Because the law regarding financial transactions was not observed, according to Jones:

"One cent has been legally expended from the city's general revenue funds during the period covered by this audit."

Seek To Change Course Of Lava Flow In Hawaii

Bombs Are Dropped By Army Aviators In Attempt To Divert
Lava Flow

(International News Service)
HONOLOULU, Hawaii, Dec. 28.—The molten river of lava from Mauna Loa volcano which was threatening Hilo's water reservoir was expected to change its course today following the aerial barrage of 600-pound bombs dropped into the seething stream by army aviators in an attempt to divert the wide-flow from the city's water supply.

Thomas A. Jaggar, United States volcanologist at Hawaii National park, carefully watched the flow, predicting a change in its course sometime today.

If the anticipated diversion fails, army engineers will explode charges of TNT near the source of the molten river which has devastated a wide area in the eastern valley of the island.

Five army planes, led by Flight Captain Joseph L. Ladd, took off from Hilo airport yesterday when the lava reached within four miles of the city's water reservoir on the Waikuli river.

Following the directions of Jaggar, who suggested the bombing as an experiment in an effort to control the forces of nature, the army aviators dropped one bomb at a time at strategic points.

In all, 20 bombs were exploded into the subterranean channels of Mauna Loa.

Thousands of sightseers thronged the hillside to watch the bombardment which sent clouds of steam and rock into the tropical sky.

getic young preacher, who explained that the Christmas star and the angel chorus are mere imagery, and delivered a "talk" that might have been written by the late Theodore Roosevelt and Nietzsche in collaboration.

"The world God made was made for heroes to seek the perfect. The man can't do it who says the snow is too deep, the wind too fierce, the rock too high."

This world "was made to give heroes a place to stand on." Hitler's own Wotan might have helped "Teddy" and Nietzsche with that sermon, which was an oratorical "pep talk" to delight any Chamber of Commerce.

THERE WAS an eclipse of the sun on Christmas Day, but private. You must have gone to the ice around the South Pole to see it, and then it lasted only 1 minute and 23 seconds.

This is a big earth to us, although it is less than a grain of dust in immensity. While the sun was enjoying its eclipse all alone at the South Pole, an earthquake was killing hundreds of poor creatures among the primitive Lolo tribesmen in the mountains of China's southern Szechuan.

One mountain was split through with a mile-wide cut, and the Yangtze River dropped five feet. That part of China the population runs 300 to the square mile, an inviting field for a vicious earthquake.

UNIVERSAL SERVICE says Russia looks on Uncle Sam as Santa Claus because he buys for thirty-five dollars an ounce all the gold that Russia can produce, and Russia produces gold from low grade ores at a cost of less than $3 an ounce. From $3 to $35 is what the retailer would call a satisfactory "mark-up."

According to Universal Service, Russia expects to produce between seven and eight million ounces of gold in 1936. Seven million ounces, costing $21,000,000 to produce, sold to Uncle Sam for $245,000,000, would yield to Russia a profit in American money of $224,000,000.

That sum, yearly, would help finance Russia's various plans most usefully.

THOMAS W. LAMONT, A. J. Pierpont Morgan & Company partner, gives five hundred thousand dollars to establish a "chair of political economy" at Harvard.

The money will stay and the interest will be used. Well invested, it should pay the chosen professor a fair salary.

TO ESTABLISH a "chair of political economy" now is like establishing a chair of fairy stories. Nobody knows what real political economy is. Adam Smith, with his profound, and Ruskin with his humane brand of political economy, would send modern professors into polite spasms of mirth.

Wisely and generously, Mr. Lamont attaches no strings to his gift, and he might be surprised, if he could live, to know the different kinds of political economy that will be taught under his financing at Harvard during the next few hundred years.

Sinclair Lewis could sketch off-hand a lecture on political economy at Harvard five hundred years hence that might fall short of the reality. That reality would surprise even Sinclair Lewis.

Adam Smith called his great book "An Inquiry Into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations." You might spend ten useful minutes defining the nature and causes of that wealth. No one has supplied satisfactory definitions thus far.

REJECTING the highly respectful terms of novel writers, playwrights, newspapermen and politicians in discussing "big" criminals, Mayor LaGuardia of New York refers to them bluntly as "punks" and "rats."

Mayor LaGuardia, it happens, knows no more about fear than he does about the science of Yogi, and contempt for the "punks" and "rats" is genuine. As a result, the recognized "big shots" of crime are no longer to be found in LaGuardia's New York City.

His orders are to bring them in "all muzzed up," and they dislike that.

LaGuardia and his Police Commissioner Valentine have one great advantage in dealing with criminals. Neither they nor anybody representing them has any backstairs or business connection with the world of crime.

Mahatma Gandhi Misses Congress Due To Illness

(International News Service)

CALCUTTA, Dec. 28.—While religious rioting, with nearly a score injured, marked the opening of the celebrations of the 50th anniversary of the all-Indian congress today, Mahatma M. K. Gandhi, congress leader for many years, stayed away from the festivities.

He gave ill health as his reason, but associates declared he was "disgusted with the wavering policy of congress." Outraged at various times during its stormy career, the congress has fought for an Indian government with equitable representation for all classes and creeds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the securities and exchange commission, has been retained by the Radio Corporation of America to make a study of the problems relating to its capital structure. It was announced today by David Sarnoff, president of the corporation.

Kennedy is undertaking this study immediately and will advise the board as soon as it is completed. Simultaneously with this announcement, Sarnoff revealed that Merlin H. Aylesworth had resigned as president of the National Broadcasting company and that Lenox Riley Lohr, general manager of Chicago's "century of progress," had been named to succeed him.

Warns That Some Pension Plans Are Dynamite

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Warning that old age pension proposals such as the Townsend plan have in them "the dynamite blast, which if it goes off, will wreck our entire economic system," Edwin E. Witte, of the University of Wisconsin, today told a joint meeting of the American statistical association and the American association for labor legislation that congress acted wisely in enacting President Roosevelt's social security act.

"It is unrealistic," he declared, "to discuss old age insurance as if there were two alternatives: doing nothing at all or confining the government's program to old age assistance."

"The real alternatives are a contributory system, as is established in the social security act, and gratuitous pensions for everybody who attains a specified age, regardless of need."

West Middlesex, the community which prides itself with being the old home town of William Powell, screen star, this week erected signs of another fame—political, along all roads leading into the community.

The signs read "The Birthplace of Alf Landon". Landon is the present governor of Kansas, and is being mentioned as the possible standard-bearer of the Republican party against President Roosevelt.

Slump in Marriages in Greene County

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 28.—A slump has overtaken the business of getting married in Greene county and officials attribute it directly to the fact that people do not like to contemplate matrimony.

Rather they prefer to close their eyes and jump—or hold their noses and swallow it like a dose of castor oil, figuratively speaking.

Since a new law to the effect that an application for marriage license must be made three days before the license is issued has been made effective, there have been less "I do's" than ever before in the county's history.

Favors Public Sessions Of Lawrence County Board Of Commissioners

With the approval of County Commissioner-elect George H. Bolinger following that of Commissioner-elect Floyd L. Cotton, open meetings of the new board of county commissioners is assured.

Joseph Hannon the third member of the new board was out of the city when called as to his views in the matter.

"I have always felt that the business transacted by the county commissioners should be open to the public," said Mr. Bolinger, and so far as I am concerned the meetings of our new board will be open.

School Teachers Await Ruling In Regard To Wages

(International News Service) UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 28.—Pennsylvania school teachers will be entitled to thousands of dollars in back pay if a ruling handed down here by Judge Davis W. Henderson is upheld by the higher courts.

Judge Henderson ruled that the minimum salaries provided under the Edmonds act were not abrogated but merely held in abeyance by an emergency act passed by the legislature in 1933. This act permitted school districts to pay less than the minimum stipulated by the Edmonds act for the two years ending last July 1. The act was not re-enacted by the last session and as a result the Edmonds act is now operative again.

Merely Delayed.

The act has been generally interpreted by many school boards and department of public instruction officials as abolishing all increments or graduated salary increases during the two-year period. Judge Henderson ruled, however, that they were merely delayed and not waived.

Dr. Charles E. Dickey, Allegheny county superintendent of schools, said the act, if upheld, would affect more than 2,000 teachers in this county alone. Pittsburgh teachers would not be affected as they received their increases during the emergency period.

Research Building Wrecked At Plant

(International News Service) MIDDLETOWN, O., Dec. 28.—The research building of the American Rolling Mills plant here was demolished by a mysterious explosion early today, causing damage estimated at $75,000.

No one was in the building at the time, police said. They believe the explosion was caused by a broken gas line in the structure.

The explosion at 1 a. m. practically leveled the three-story building. Windows and lights in private home and offices for miles around were broken.

Harry "Kaiser" Foscato, the New Castle ace guard, pulled the fire in the final 15 seconds of play last night at George Washington High gym as New Castle defeated Har-Brack High basketball team 30 to 29 in one of the most thrilling games of the short season to date. "Dai" Mumford was again the main cog in the Bridenbaugh attack with 12 points. It was the fourth straight victory of the early season for the New Castle "Red Hurricanes."

Incidentally it was the first defeat handed to Har-Brack High this year and no wonder they kicked loud and strenuously at the end of the game, claiming that the field goal by Toscano did not count as the whistle had blown. But, Referee Les Harr ruled that the basket did count and therefore the victory was placed in the New Castle bag.

New Castle opened up with a fast offensive in the third period and paced by the sensational young Dal Mumford who made seven more points, and a lead of 25 to 21 as the period closed. Severin again led the scoring attack for the Har-Brackians with all of the five points. At the end of the first half New Castle was still ahead by a lone point, at 15 to 14. Carik, Mumford, Grommes and Toscano supplied the points in the second period. Stoner led the visitors in scoring.

Toscano Wins Game With the hands on the clock ticking off the seconds rapidly, and only 15 to go, Har-Brack led 29 to 28 and it looked like curtains for the New Castle boys, but Toscano grabbed the ball and sped down the floor with the grace of a young gazelle, and taking careful aim plopped the leather-ball into the basket just as the timers whistle sounded for as thrilling a play as seen here for sometime.

Owing to the bedlam that was taking place the Referee did not hear the whistle by the timers ending the game and the Har-Brack coach kicked long and loud, but Harr said "the basket counts" and that was that.

"Dai" Mumford and Harry Severin shared scoring honors, with the New Castle ace forward a point to leeward of the Har-Brackians, Grommes and Toscano also played a whale of a game for New Castle. Stoner was good at forward for the Har-Bracks.

Erle East High will appear here Monday night at Washington High for the final warm-up game of the year.

No Major Changes In Football Rules For 1936 Season

Coaches Fail To Recommend Any Glaring Changes For Next Year

Game As Played Today Seems To Fit The Bill Very Nicely

By DAVIS J. WALSH Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Except for those of minor consequence and trivial intent, there are no changes planned in the football rules for the season of 1936, chairman Walter R. Oakeson, of the football rules committee, will announce in his annual report to the national collegiate athletic association today. Mr. Oakeson released the report this morning in advance of its actual presentation to the convention later in the day.

He said that he was predicating his statement upon tentative views expressed by other members of the rules committee and the further fact that "it is safe to say that 1935 was the greatest season football ever had."

Very Few Changes After speaking of the "wonderful advance" in tactics and strategy during 1935 and that increased scoring could only mean the offense had been "greatly improved," the committee's spokesman added with what might be considered significant emphasis:

"As there was practically no change in the rules, (between the seasons of 1934 and 1935), this improvement indicated rather clearly that, with stabilized rules, the coaches are able to make better progress in the development of teams."

So at last, after thirty years of experimentation, and, in some cases, outright meddling with what has always been a very good game, we are talking in terms of "stabilization" and we can only hope that the committee members have three good rounds of golf when they go down to Absecon, N. J., a couple of months hence, meantime taking neither their problems or themselves too seriously.

Rules Satisfactory Anyhow, under the caption, "the present rules satisfactory," chairman Oakeson declares that the game has already been made too complicated by "too many rules in the book now which were drafted to cover exceptional cases," and then goes on to quote a committee member who is also a coach, to the following effect:

"(A) From the players' standpoint, hazards have been eliminated. (B) From coaches' standpoint, the game offers an opportunity for as diversified play as anyone desires."

"(C) Clarifications (of rules) have made it easier for officials. (D) Spectators find the game most interesting."

It seems that the only contemplated change at this moment is the elimination of a supplemental note in connection with Rule 7, Section 7, giving the runner, even while in the grasp of an opponent, the right to run, pass or kick until the whistle is blown. This was intended to encourage lateral passing downfield and did so, earlier in the year, but the chairman, I think, is admitting a tacit failure here in conceding:

"The evidence of the past season would indicate that the offense can get along very well indeed, even if the elimination of this note should handicap it slightly."

In other words, the so called "slow whistle" may not be so much in evidence this time, although chairman Oakeson is obviously of no mind to commit himself too definitely on anything "that may happen two months hence."

Difficult Job "In reporting so soon" after the conclusion of the season," says he, "our committee cannot speak finally as to many things."

Of football injuries, admittedly considered only up to November 15, he also says, "it is at least ten times as safe to play football as it is to ride in a motor car."

Of officiating, he speaks of integrity and honesty and then adds, "more and more, the thoughtful sport writer has come to realize the difficult job an official undertakes."

However, I still favor the old fashioned, nightshirt.

Soreli said he had received a cablegram from the boxer stating he had been caught under Italy's compulsory training law for citizens up to 35 years of age and that he would have to spend at least 60 days in Ethiopia with a special mountaineering unit of which he is a member.

Carnera sailed several weeks ago to spend the holidays in the home-land.

Their Roles in U. S. War Entry Drama Revealed

Revelations concerning how the U. S. got into the Russo-Franco-British war on the Teutonic allies, are promised by forecasts of evidence taken from secret files for Senate Munitions Committee as it resumes inquiry. The files are declared to show that President Wilson abandoned neutrality policy established by Secretary of State W. J. Bryan, after Bryan resigned, under pressure of bankers identified with J. P. Morgan who had made huge loans to French and British and feared they would be lost if Germany won. This pressure, the papers are stated to indicate, was exerted through Robert Lansing, Bryan's successor; Wilson's son-in-law, W. G. McAdoo, then Treasury secretary, and Walter H. Page, in-law, W. G. McAdoo, then Treasury secretary, and Walter H. Page, ambassador to London. As early as 1915, letters show, Lansing and Page were both working to get U. S. support for the French and British with Page violating U. S. neutrality in dealings with British officials.

International News Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—With today the last session for establishing 1935 profits or losses, trading in the stock market was the broadest for a Saturday session in months. The market was highly irregular with the trend lower.

Prices changes for the most part were fractional, with the bulk of the selling centered in the higher priced investment issues like DuPont, Air Reduction, U. S. Steel preferred and American Can.

Weak spots were the steels, building, motors and farm equipments, U. S. Steel preferred was off a point, and the common almost as much. Bethlehem was down fractionally. Others in this group showed fractional losses.

Chrysler broke nearly a point. General Motors was down fractionally.

Johns Mansville after selling initially a point higher, dropped a point below previous close. American Radiator and U. S. Gypsum also were lower.

Appointment of Joseph P. Kennedy, the former sec. chairman, to study a recapitalization plan for Radio Corp. Advanced the common half a point at the opening and also strengthened the "B" preferred, but both slid off later with the rest of the market.

The food shares were improved slightly. United Fruit recovered 1½ points and National Biscuit was higher.

Wedding Announced

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 28.—Wednesday, December 25, was the date chosen by Miss Alberta Klingensmith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Klingensmith of Beach Bottom, W. Va., to become the bride of Richard Nye, formerly of this city and now of Canton, O., and a son of Mrs. Della Nye of North Sewickley.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the bride's home with the immediate family in attendance. Rev. Van Boris was the officiating minister.

The couple was attended by Miss Derika Campbell and Gene Fortney, both of Beach Bottom.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding dinner was tendered at the bride's home. The bride was beautifully centered with a large adorned wedding cake.

Later in the day they motored to the Nye home at North Sewickley where the groom's mother, Mrs. Della Nye, entertained at a family dinner in their honor.

Last evening a large group of friends held a shower and dance in their honor at Camp Con-E-Que in Canton, O., where the groom is employed by the Timken Steel company.

Opening Dates Of Rural Schools

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 28.—Now that Santa Claus and all his reindeer have returned to their home at the North Pole, once again the pupils of the various rural schools will settle down to the last half of the school year.

Pupils of the Franklin township schools which re-open on Monday, December 30, may remind their neighbors and playmates of the North Sewickley township schools, which will not resume until Monday, January 6, that they will be free one week earlier in the spring which seems to be of little consolation to either the teachers or pupils at this time.

Thursday, January 2, will mark the opening date of the Ellport, Perry and Wayne township schools, after a happy and refreshing vacation of eight school days. The high school pupils of all these districts will resume their studies on Thursday, January 2, at the Ellwood high school.

Burgess Turner
To Accept New Job With State

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 28.—Announcement of the acceptance of Burgess Judd C. Turner of appointment as assistant to Executive Secretary Seth E. Gordon of the Board of Game Commissioners, which appointment came from Gov. Earle, came today. Burgess Turner is leaving Tuesday for Harrisburg, to assume his new duties and establish permanent headquarters.

Burgess Turner who served several years as president of the Ellwood City Rod and Gun Club is the present head of the northwest division of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's clubs. Due to the fact that his duties will necessitate his permanent residence in Harrisburg, Mr. Turner plans to resign his office as Burgess of Ellwood City. It is expected that the resignation will be presented at the organization meeting of Council on Monday, Jan. 6. Mr. Turner's term still has two years to go.

According to the Borough Council can elect any citizen of the community to fill out the unexpired term of Burgess Turner. If they fail to agree on a selection within thirty days the Burgess will be appointed by the Judge of County Court.

Ellwood City is fortunate in having a large and active Rod and Gun club. Despite the relative small size of the community it has succeeded in gaining state appointments for two of its former presidents, Charles A. French of this city is on the fish commission and now comes Burgess Turner.

With the going of Burgess Turner Ellwood City loses one of its foremost citizens. As head of the borough for the past six years the affairs were run in an efficient, business-like manner. He was considered a fine humanitarian and his generosity to his many services to the community in and out of his official capacity, he became extremely popular. When Burgess Turner came up for reelection two years ago he practically received the unanimous vote of the community. He was a guiding hand in all undertakings that would give benefit to this district. Burgess Turner has served as an officer in numerous organizations of Lawrence and Beaver county that were instrumental in gaining benefits. His scope of activities was a study in variety itself. What is Ellwood City's loss will be Harrisburg's gain.

He was graduated from the local high school in 1931 and also attended school in Cleveland, Ohio, since then. He is at present employed here. They will reside in Harmony.

ELLWOOD RESERVES

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 28.—Using a fast and diversified attack Ellwood City high school basketball team surprised their followers with a convincing 44-17 victory over a well rated Evans City high quintet before a big crowd at Lincoln gym on Friday evening.

The Ellwood Wolverines showed that their three previous overwhelming victories were no flashes in the pan by last night's game. The locals took the lead from the opening whistle and were never headed. They launched such an attack in this initial period as to leave their opponents mystified. The score was 21-2 for Ellwood.

Ellwood was the master throughout the game. Coach Schill used 15 men in the game and substituted freely. With Kraynak and Luxenberg leading the attack, the Tubers played most of the second quarter at the close of which the score stood at 31-7 for Ellwood. The proteges of Coach "Denny" Schill and Jerry Newton slackened their pace in the ensuing stanza when they scored three points to Evans City's six. They again hit their full stride in the closing chapter, scoring 10 points to Evans City's 4.

Hauserman, Flanagan and Marcus figured prominently in the Ellwood offensive with their fine passing and work that made it possible for others to score. Denbow, Kaufman and Banyany were outstanding for the visitors.

Would Change Supreme Court

New York Supreme Court Justice Would Divide United States Court By Districts

LIBERALS ARE DISGRUNTLED LOT

Central Press Washington Bureau 1900 S Street
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The suggestion by Justice William Harmon Black of the New York supreme court that the United States supreme court's membership be reorganized on a geographical basis is attracting a deal of attention in congress.

Justice Black also agrees with those who urge that the federal bench be deprived of what the New York jurist terms its "assumed authority" to nullify congressional acts as unconstitutional. Basically perhaps this is a more important proposal than the plan for a geographical distribution of justiceships, but it is not new.

Presumably a constitutional amendment would be necessary to adopt the geographical idea. If so, Justice Black favors it.

To break the supreme court's habit of outlawing acts of congress on the other hand, might not require an amendment if, as such legalists as Justice Black contend, the "nine old men," in doing so, simply are exercising "usurped power," the remedy would seem to be to prevail on them to stop usurping it. However, no one imagines that they will stop voluntarily. Therefore, for practical purposes, an amendment appears to be essential, to rub in the notion that they must.

HOPE OF LIBERALS

What makes advanced liberals so determined to curtail the federal supreme court's authority is the conviction that they never will get a liberal bench—not while the country remains predominantly conservative, except by brief "spells."

That is to say, it initially is a conservative bench and a liberal administration never remains long enough at the helm to change its complexion.

Occasionally a liberal is appointed, during a short liberal interval. But, after that, there invariably is a long period of administrative conservatism, and several conservatives are named and confirmed for justiceships.

The liberals see it as their only hope to revamp the system and gain judicial control some time when they have a fleeting chance—as now, for example, under the New Deal, if they can work fast enough; such drastic changes are hard to effect in hot haste.

ROBINSON MENTIONED

Liberals, too, are discouraged by the reflection that a supposedly liberal president doesn't always appoint a liberal supreme court justice when a vacancy exists.

For example, Shall we call President Roosevelt a liberal? If he serves a second term he certainly will be called on to fill a supreme court seat or two. Suppose one of the two liberal judges should die or retire? It generally is agreed that Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas would get the job. Senator Robinson is a "regular" Democrat, but by no stretch of the imagination can he be called a liberal.

Such a change (assuming it would leave only one true-blue liberal on the bench—Justice Cardozo, or Justice Brandeis.

Justice Stone is spoken of as a mild liberal, but he's very mild. Chief Justice Hughes is slightly liberal but not so liberal as Stone. Justice Roberts is liberal enough to express himself liberally occasionally—but when he does it causes surprise.

Justices Van Devanter, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler are recognized conservatives—"hide-bound," liberals say.

Conservative Advantage
Well, then, with the one change most immediately predictable, the court seems likely, under a liberal president, to become more conservative; not more liberal.

Liberals don't like the prospect. There are among them, in fact, legislators who favor making the federal judiciary's offices all elective.

Balance By District
But, Justice Black's demand for a geographical distribution of justiceships?

The New York Justice points out that the United States has sectional interests of a judicial nature, as well as legislative.

It appears to him that the country can be cut up into definitely marked areas, a supreme court justice to each—each justice to speak for his particular area, as a senator speaks for his state or a representative for his district.

At present, if a justice, appointed from the far northwest, dies or retires, his successor may be chosen from the far southeast—entirely out of sympathy with northwestern concepts. Or vice versa. Or justiceships can be "bunched." On the bench now there are three New Yorkers out of a total of nine—30 per cent of the court against all the rest of the country.

Justice Black would change this. He would have each justice chosen from his own bailiwick of states. Then let the nine of them compromise.

Supreme Court Altered Whole Future Of The U.S., In It's Decisions During '35

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The United States Supreme court in 1935 apparently altered the economic course of the nation for many years. In the opinion of many experienced observers the year has been more important in court history than any since the court's decision in the Dred Scott case was followed by the Civil war.

During the year the court has been almost constantly in the public eye. It has been criticized and praised, but the nine elderly judges on the nation's highest tribunal apparently have been unaffected by public discussion.

The high court's 5 to 4 decision in the famous "gold cases," handed down on Feb. 18, 1935, rank among the most notable cases on its long history. It set the limits to which congress may go in changing the monetary system of the nation.

So far-reaching was the effect of the decision that Justice James C. McReynolds, dissenting, told astonished hearers in the court-room that "The Constitution, as we have known it, is gone forever."

The high court, in a unanimous decision, scrapped the NRA which Roosevelt administration had built up to set industry upon a new plane.

So important was that decision that President Roosevelt asserted that the court had carried the nation "back to the horse and buggy days."

In the "gold cases" the high court held unconstitutional an act of the Roosevelt administration which abrogated the gold clause in state municipal and private bonds. The decision permitted redemption of bonds in "lawful money" even though the bond stated that they were payable in gold.

The court held that congress lacked constitutional power to make the same provision with reference to treasury bonds, but at the same time it held that other valid legislation prevented holders of gold bonds and certificates from claiming a premium because of devaluation of the dollar.

The staggering total of $69,000,000 was involved in the cases. Attorney-General Homer Cummings told the court, during argument, that an adverse decision would plunge the nation into chaos.

High hopes of the Roosevelt administration, created by this decision, were dashed on May 27, 1935. On that day the court held unconstitutional the National Industrial Recovery act, the Frazier-Lemke 5-year farm moratorium law and held that President Roosevelt lacked power to summarily remove a member of the Federal Trade commission.

Although members of the court were regularly classed as "conservative" or "liberal" the unanimous decisions in these cases gave a jolt to many who believed the court would alter orthodox views of the constitution.

The court charted the paths Congress may travel in attempting to control industry of the nation. A distinct division between congressional power over interstate commerce and acts directly affecting interstate commerce was drawn from states alone can control.

In effect, the decision in the Frazier-Lemke case held that Congress lacks the power to cancel debts.

Previously the court had in a 5 to 4 decision, held unconstitutional the railroad pension act. In this law Congress attempted to tax railroads and workers for a pension system, to include in benefits workers previously separated from the service and to take money from one railroad to aid the workers of another.

Congress enacted a new railroad pension act, somewhat modified, following the decision. It also enacted a new Frazier-Lemke 3-year moratorium. But so sweeping was the NRA decision that no adequate substitute could be found.

The court has before it other notable cases involving constitutionality as the year ends.

During 1935 the personnel of the court remained unchanged. It included Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes and Associate Justices Brandeis, McReynolds, Van Devanter, Butler, Sutherland, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo.

LIKE QUESTION OF OLD RAZOR BLADES

(International News Service)
CAPE MAY, N. J., Dec. 28.—What to do with old razor blades may still be a war debt, be an unsolved problem, but—

The Cape May-Wildwood Boatmen's association has answered the equally perplexing question of what to do with Christmas trees after the holiday season.

Don't throw them away, the association urges. Any that are turned over to the group will be used to help plant a fish sanctuary off the Cape May. Their branches, when intertwined with old automobile bodies and wrecks, make ideal breeding places for salt water game fish.

BOY, 2, LIKES TO SMOKE HIS PIPE

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa.,—"How about a light, Pop?"

It's baby Paul Kaut, age two, speaking—if you can call it such—as he settles down to a quiet evening of relaxation with his pipe.

His father, Paul Kaut, Sr., gets the match, because the tiny tot has a hard time of it walking up the stairs.

Next to a bottle of milk, Paul likes his pipe best. He was eight months old when he definitely decided against the "old-fashioned" pacifier in favor of his father's briar.

He's been smoking ever since and looks none-the-worse for it.

SUSTAINS SUPREME COURT

New Castle, Pa.
Dec. 26, 1935.

Mr. Fred Rentz,
New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:—It was my privilege to read an editorial relative to an address by Atty. A. Leo Weil, before the Hungry Club Monday, in Pittsburgh, on the power of the United States Supreme Court.

He pointed out in his address that Chief Justice Marshall in 1803 ruled that the court had the power to declare an act of Congress unconstitutional. At the time of this declaration by Chief Justice Marshall there were 39 of the 55 members of the Federal constitutional convention living and not one of those men spoke.

Therefore it was the mind of those men who framed our Federal Constitution that the supreme court of the United States should have that power. Why was this power vested in the Supreme Court? Because I believe that those men who framed our Constitution were able to look into the future and see that wisdom and justice must have some basis to work from in order to provide equal protection for our future welfare as a nation as provided in the preamble of our Constitution.

Another thought—we must recognize the fact that our law making and law enforcing departments are very much political and become untamed at times, also there are individuals or groups, who have axes to grind. Therefore, it is necessary to have some sort of a safety valve for protection. And today we are, or at least we should be, thankful that we have one department that has no strings tied to it. Again we must recognize the considerations of our presidents in their selections of those men who are to pass judgment on our acts. We as a nation need to be proud of the men that sit as members of the United States Supreme Court.

Where could we find a finer group of men over this broad land of ours with Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice than those that have been chosen by our elected officers?

How many of us could do better than they or equally as good? Would we do differently if we had axes to grind?

Those that framed our federal constitution provided a nice income for these gentlemen and came to continue for life realizing that the material things of life should not be troubled of their troubles if any.

I like to defend the teachings of Jesus Christ, because, to whom can we go after all others have failed. I like to defend these men of our Supreme Court because where on earth can we go after all others have failed us concerning the material things of life.

Every American citizen should accept the decision of the Supreme Court without question. Our constitution must be defended and the Supreme Court of the United States must do it.

Yours truly,
A. W. MERCER,
R. F. D. No. 4.
